

FACULTY'S BIOGRAPHIES

Dr TAN Hee Hon

*University Dental Cluster
Singapore*

Dr. Tan Hee Hon has been a practitioner in the fields of Prosthodontics, Implant Dentistry and Orofacial Pain.

He earned his BDS from National University of Singapore in 1989 and completed his Prosthodontics Residency Program in 1995. In 1999, he spent a sabbatical year under another sponsorship of Health Manpower Development Program for the Study of Orofacial Pain. After working at the Oral Medicine Department, School of Dentistry, University of Washington, he returned to National Dental Center and became the Head of Orofacial Pain Management Program. From 2004 to 2014, he was in full time private practice at Mount Elizabeth Medical Center. He is appointed to be a trainer for NobelGuide Concept and Mentor for NobelBiocare Implants educational program in 2005.

Dr. Tan maintains his passion for education. His lecture topics include implant dentistry, prosthodontics and orofacial pain/temporomandibular disorder. In 2014, his enthusiasm for education and research of Prosthodontics and Orofacial Pain prompted him to join National University of Singapore, as a full time member of the Faculty of Dentistry.